NUMB. 3173

THURSDAY, MAY 3, 1744.

Rome, April 18.

Cardinal Pozzobonelli having received the Placet of the Queen of Hungary for the Archbishoprick of Milan, sets out for that City the latter End of next Week. Cardinal Aquaviva had, on Tuesday last, a long Conference with his Holiness, which is supposed to relate chiefly to the Affairs of the Kingdom of Naples; it being now looked upon, as a Thing certain, that Prince Lobkowitz, in Conjunction with the English Fleet, will attempt the Conquest of that Country.

Leghorn, April 18. There arrived here on the 38th an English Ship, in nine Days from Portmahon, the Master of which reported, that Admiral Matthews was putting to Sea with 27 Men of War, in order to go to Villafranca. The Master of a Dutch Vessel, who left Portmahon the last of last Month, assures us, that 3000 Regular Troops are embarked on board that Fleet. And Yesterday in the Evening, another Dutch Ship arrived, the Master of which met 26 English Men of War in the Height of Villafranca.

Vienna, April 25. The Count de Dohna, Minister from the King of Prussia, has lately had several private Audiences from the Queen. We make no question, that the Assurances he has given her Majesty are very acceptable, since we hear nothing more of assembling an Army of Observation in Bohemia, or Moravia. We are likewise pretty well recovered from the Uneasiness we were under, with respect to the Army of Neutrality, about which there was such a Noise last Winter; that, after disarming the Inhabitants, a small Body of Troops will be sufficient to awe the Electorate of Bavaria. The grand Army that is to act in the Empire, will assemble at Hailbron on the Neckar. Besides that Army, General Berenclau will command a Flying Camp in the Brisgau; and Baron Trenck will act under his Command, with all his Irregular Forces. On the 23d there arrived, in the Neighbourhood of this City, a Corps of 1060 Men, from the Banks of the River Theiss; they were divided into eight Companies, and made a most martial Appearance. Her Majesty gave each of the Soldiers a Piece of her Coin, of the Value of 2 s. 6 d.

Berlin, April 28. There arrive daily Couriers from London; whose Dispatches are supposed to relate to the War declared between Great Britain and France, which gives a good deal of Trouble to this Court; but his Majesty has declared to the French Minister, that if any Attempt be made upon Hanover, he shall not content himself with sending the stipulated Succours of 6000 Men. The States General have lately acceded to the Treaty of Breslaw, by which they guaranty Silesia to his Majesty; and they have likewise given him Satisfaction, in respect to the Disputes about some Districts near Zutphen.

Antwerp, May 2. We learn this Morning from Valenciennes, that his most Christian Majesty is arrived there, in his Way to the Army; and that, after all, it is believed he would open the Campaign with the Siege of Oudenard. If this should happen, a decisive Action must speedily ensue; since the Army of the Queen, and her Allies, have had Orders to assemble between Brussels and that Place, in order to take Possession of a strong Camp, which may enable them to defeat the Schemes of the Enemy.
